

Linear programming and cooperative games

WALTER KERN

University of Twente

We study cooperative games associated to well-known combinatorial problems. The focus is on TSP and bin packing. There is a link between core-related solution concepts and fractional versions of the underlying combinatorial problems, motivating several interesting open questions that we would like to communicate.