

Designing Benefit-Effort Rules: Welfare vs. Redistribution

András Simonovits
HAS

Abstract

We consider an abstract mechanism-design model, where there are n types. The type-specific utility and balance are smooth functions of the observable effort and reward, respectively. We study first- and second-best solutions, especially local indeterminacy of redistributive second-best and the Pareto-inferiority of the neutral second-best.